Multiple Intelligences for Leadership Development

International Seminar - Florence (Italy), 25 - 29 may 2015

Kamaleonte, and ALP – Activating Leadership Potential

JOIN OUR SEMINAR AND FIND OUT ABOUT YOUR OWN INTELLIGENCES AND HOW THEY INFLUENCE AND SUPPORT YOU IN YOUR LEADERSHIP ROLE.

OBJECTIVES

- explore the connection between leadership and multiple intelligences as generative engine for self-development and leadership.
- learn and experience the Multiple Intelligences approach
- test and reflect on your own leadership behavior
- discover what strengths-based and authentic Leadership means for you and what competences are connected to it
- exchange with other participants from different countries and backgrounds the use of Multiple Intelligences and leadership

APPROACH

We believe that the best way to learn leadership is through having real experiences and reflecting upon them to get new insights for applying it to real-life cases from the everyday work. Therefore this course has a maximum of 12 participants and offers for each participants a personal leadership challenge, where they can test and reflect their own leadership behavior.

The course is based on the theoretical developments of the Multiple Intelligences approach of Howard Gardner applied to leadership based on strengths and appreciation. Both Gardner and Strengths-based Leadership focus on finding out the strengths of individuals – intelligences included – and using them as key resources for a healthy leadership, particularly in time of changes and uncertainty where all resources need to be fully activated and available.

The seminar is an opportunity to clarify your potential as leaders and to work on empowering beliefs. Whereas traditional development approaches often start with identifying problems, weaknesses and failures and try to analyze them as a way to solve them – Strengths-based leadership and the multiple Intelligences approach starts with positive experiences and builds from there, generating motivation, commitment and more positive experiences.
